Built for the harsh Canadian climate

Rialux aluminum siding undergoes rigorous testing and has been certified by a third-party laboratory (UL Laboratory Canada Inc), ensuring compliance with the industry's highest standards. Designed for superior quality, it combines durability, strength, and aesthetics. Thanks to its high-precision manufacturing, our siding is specially engineered to withstand the extreme weather conditions of North America, providing optimal protection and exceptional longevity for all types of architectural projects.

ABOUT RIALUX :

TIAGO AND TIMBERLAND 4 to 6 shades

The Tiago and Timberland collections feature four to six varied shades for each available color. This diversity helps recreate the authentic look of natural materials by adding depth and richness to surfaces. With specially designed packaging that distinguishes each shade, every project achieves a harmonious and dynamic finish, evoking the natural charm of wood.

Wood-look colors with a natural feel

Rialux aluminum siding perfectly replicates the warm look of wood thanks to an advanced lamination process. Each panel is coated with a protective UV layer. This ultra-realistic finish combines the elegance of wood with the durability of aluminum, offering a low-maintenance siding that withstands the elements and maintains its beauty over time.
